

THE MAY DAYS ARE HERE!

Happiest days of all the year, for so many. The time when every body takes great joy in donning new apparel, and when everybody who loves the home rejoices in having new comforts and new beauty-things come into it. What a joy it has been to gather all these new things! What care and pride we have taken to have them all the best to be found.

Now our great pride is to have our friends come and see what is here—because so many things are here in full variety again; so many things are so much better than they have been; and almost everything is so much more reasonable in price than has been possible during recent years. Come and let us help you to get everything ready for the happy May days and all other Summer days.

SEEKING ALWAYS TO SERVE YOU BETTER. Appreciating as we do the good will that has made this store possible, we are never content with what we are doing for our customers. Each day we do the best we can, but we are constantly alive to all our shortcomings. Some might reason that these shortcomings are common to all stores—that perfection of service is impossible of human attainment, and so it probably is; but constant endeavor to betterment is always possible and is always in our day's effort. When our service fails to satisfy you, tell us, and when you see how we can improve our store's service, we'll thank you for informing us about it.

Fort Norman Oil Location Was Discovered in 1898 by Alphonse Waterer, of Red Deer, on the Way to Yukon, but the Gold Fever Retained Development.

(By Alphonse Waterer)

In the oil strike at Fort Norman, but the beginning of things? Will the next few months see a new Yukon opened up for development? Is it likely that Edmonton will become a city eclipsing the fondest dreams? Such questions arise in one's mind after hearing an old Klondike prospector who went through the Arctic region in '98 declare that two gold strikes will be made in the northern wilderness. Alphonse Waterer it is who speaks from personal knowledge of the north, predicting that copper mines and iron mines will follow in the wake of oil strikes.

If that well which the Imperial oil company has drilled below Fort Norman does not yield enough oil to pay for transportation the difficulty can be overcome by drilling another one in the same locality which would bring about the desired result.

DISCOVERY IN 1898

I speak thus because when I discovered this location myself (in the month of August, 1898) twenty-three years ago, I was thoroughly convinced that oil was there in paying quantities and the recent developments have intensified that conviction if that were possible.

When I arrived in Dawson City, I made my discovery known after I found I had arrived there too late to stake a gold claim, and I tried to get people interested in it. Alphonse Waterer, one of them, but of course every body had the gold fever there in those days, and oil was not even a secondary consideration. I wrote the story of the whole trip from Edmonton to Dawson City and offered it to the editor of a certain paper there. He did not even take the trouble to examine it, but when I offered it to the editor of the "Nugget," (pioneer paper of the Yukon), he gladly accepted it and paid me a handsome sum for it in gold dust and it appeared in serial form in five chapters.

This story told all about the oil prospects at the Big Cascade and Crooked Rapid, and the McMurray tar sands, all on the Athabasca River. These locations had been known for a considerable time, and were simply waiting for somebody to tackle them. It also told of the salt springs and salt cones (caused by evaporation) away up on the Salt river, a sample which I secured being of a high grade.

GOLD NEAR FORT NORMAN

Near Fort Norman I found quantities of drift shale, and conglomerate, which I attach no importance. Soon after leaving Fort Norman, bald round-topped mountains came plain into view whose formation from the distance I judged by their color to be granite, and they appeared to be isolated.

Not far from here was a creek running into the Mackenzie which I called into view between forty and fifty miles below Fort Norman whose surface at times was literally covered with oil and the atmosphere thereabouts was highly permeated with the strong odor of oil tar. I then went to land and investigate the surroundings and from all appearances and the sure indications which pointed to oil in large quantities, I concluded that I had discovered a proposition which sooner or later must prove to be of inestimable value.

ANTICLINAL FOLDS

In the recent article which I read concerning the Fort Norman oil fields I noticed a party of geologists had discovered a system of "anticlinal folds" which is very interesting, and I may here add to this interest by stating that the same kind of formation is also a casual feature of the landscape in the Yukon, an instance of which occurs between Dawson City and Circle City, and it is reasonable to assume that these peculiarities have been caused by subterranean waves in seismic areas, whose formations were originally horizontal.

Following this northern oil boom there will be at least two gold strikes, one between the Red river and the Arctic shore which will be accessible from the Arctic ocean. I look for iron to be found somewhere in this region if indications on the Rat river are anything to go by, the other in the region of the Great Bear lake east of Fort Norman.

COPPER DEPOSITS

The copper deposits which carry gold and are known to exist on the Coppermine river will be developed in due course, and oil will be found in paying quantities in the region of the Big Cascade and Crooked Rapid on the Athabasca, both of which are

ECZEMA
Defied Doctors

"For three years doctors treated me for a terrible attack of eczema," writes Madam Alphonse Larivière, 671, Kentman St., Fall River, Mass. "Each time I gave up the case as incurable. I then went to a specialist who charged $50 but did me absolutely no good."

"Though one could hardly have been more discouraged at the time when I heard about Zam-Buk, I decided to try it. I applied dressings of the balm regularly and for balming purposes used only Zam-Buk Medical Soap. Very soon there was such decided improvement that I was encouraged to continue. The combined use of Zam-Buk and Zam-Buk Soap soothed and thoroughly purified my skin of disease."

SKIN-SOOTHING ESSENCES penetrate to the root of eczema, ulcers, ringworm, poisoned sores, etc. Zam-Buk not only clears away unsightly surface eruptions like pimples, blotches and rashes—it literally uproots eczema and other obstinate skin disease from the underlying tissues.

The first dressing of Zam-Buk soothes and cools the skin and ends irritation. Then when it has unexpectantly purified the diseased parts, Zam-Buk promotes the growth of clear healthy skin.

close to the Grand Rapids where I heard Colonel Cornwall remark, "The Klondike is right here."

On the other side of the divide which intersects the McDougall Pass the region about the headwaters of the Bell river is worth prospecting. On the Porcupine river gold will be found in the region of the Old Crow mountain, and between Boundary river and Rampart House.

CITIES IN NORTH

The mountains on the United States side of the boundary line are valuable oil locations where oil will be found in large quantities. This region also contains marble and coal. A great city will arise on the shores of Athabasca lake whose foundation stone will be laid at no distant date, and other cities will be in the making at intervals right through to the Arctic shores.

I was fourteen months going from Edmonton to Dawson City (May 4, 1898—July 20, 1899) by way of the Athabasca, Slave, Mackenzie, Peel, Rat, Bell and Porcupine rivers and the men who went into the Klondike by this route were known there as the "Rat River Men."

In writing this, I wish it to be generally understood that I am not seeking to take the wind out of anybody's sails, but, on the contrary, I am extremely gratified to think and to know that others have taken hold of a proposition which I could not handle myself owing to lack of capital, and that their efforts will be crowned with success I have not the least doubt.

There is one name above all others I want to see connected with the Fort Norman oil field, and that is Colonel J. K. Cornwall, who I was acquainted with twenty-three years ago. Jim was a poor man in those days but brimful of grit and enterprise, and anytime he may possess at the present time has come to him through persistent hard work and earnest endeavor.

In this article I have endeavored to tell you something about the richest portion of your inheritance which is overflowing with possibilities. When I went into the great northland twenty-three years ago and spent fourteen months there before reaching the Yukon my outfit was a slender one but I had in my make-up a very large stock of enthusiasm which perils and hardships could not dampen.

CANADIANS NOT SO NUMEROUS IN UNITED STATES

During the Past Decade the Number of Residents Has Decreased to 90,000.

Washington, April 25.—During the last 10 years the number of Canadians resident in the United States has fallen off 87,501, compared with an increase of 27,000 in the previous decade. According to statistics just given out by the census bureau there are now 1,117,136 Canadians living in the United States. French Canadians number 307,631, and show a loss of 77,771 in the 10 years, while Canadians of other origins number 309,455, and show a loss of 10,009.

German, Austria, Ireland and Russian, natives of which made up more than 50 per cent. of the total foreign-born population of the United States 10 years ago, showed heavy losses.

Linen Industry in Canada

Dominion Linens, Ltd., Manufacturing and Ironing Department, showing Callanders, Hydraulic Mangles, Folding and Measuring Machines. Total floor space about half acre.

The linen industry was initiated in Canada in 1902 by Mr. William Berry, now Vice-President of the Dominion Linens Limited, Guelph, Ontario. Previous to this time, however, there had been several attempts at linen manufacture, and mills established in different parts of Canada, but all had resulted in failure. From the earliest period of human history till almost the close of the eighteenth century, linen manufacture was one of the most extensive and widely disseminated of the domestic industries of European countries. It was most largely developed in Russia, Austria, Germany, Holland, Belgium, Northern France, certain parts of England, the North of Ireland and throughout Scotland. In the latter part of the eighteenth century the invention of cotton spinning machinery gave the linen weaving industry a fatal blow. Domestic spinning and weaving began to shrink and with it hand loom weaving.

In 1815, at Darlington, England, a machine was invented, which after many improvements and modifications has become the perfect system of machinery with which at the present day linen spinning mills are furnished. The discovery of a process for the mechanical spinning of linen yarn for weaving into cloth by power loom was much slower than in the corresponding case of cotton. There are two branches in the modern manufacture, spinning and weaving, to which may be added bleaching and various finishing processes. The flax fibre is received in bales from the Scotch mills and after having been classed into various grades according to the quality of the material, is labelled and placed in store ready for the flax.

When the manufacture of linen in Canada was successfully started, the idea was to purchase yarns from the Continental and Irish spinning mills, who were being supplied with Russian flax, at a price much below that for which flax could be grown in Canada. As most of the linen manufacturers in Ireland were weavers only, buying their yarns from spinners, it was thought quite possible and feasible that the same method could be employed with success in Canada, and prior to the war, the linen business depended entirely on these imported yarns to keep their plants in operation.

In the year 1913, it is estimated that Russia produced about 400,000 tons of flax, and other European countries, including Great Britain and Ireland, 100,000 tons.

With the complete collapse of Russia in 1918, it became evident that if the linen business was to be continued in Canada, it would be necessary to establish a spinning plant here, to spin the Canadian grown flax, which with the improved methods of cultivation, were proven equal to or better than the Russian flax, on which the industry had relied previous to the war. A modern complete chain of linen manufacturers and make this business a purely Canadian one has been installed at Guelph and is now in full running order. This plant has been equipped with the latest modern dry and wet spinning systems. To secure the highest quality of linen yarns, workers were brought from Belgium, via the C.P.R., who were experienced in water setting flax, similar to the finest Flemish and Belgian flax which are used for producing the highest grade linens.

Banking Service for All

AS the majority of the first directors of the Bank of Montreal, formed in 1817, were Scotchmen or bore Scotch names it was but natural that they should seek in Canada "to extend and to perpetuate for the farmer and the merchant the benefits and stimulus of a system the worth of which Scotland's prosperity could abundantly prove." One of the outstanding features of the system was the maintenance of numerous branches by banks of large capital.

The Bank of Montreal, in adopting this feature from the outset, laid the foundations of a service by which branches have been established throughout the entire Dominion.

At each of these branches the full service of the complete organization is available.

Through this service the Bank of Montreal offers to all classes of the community, from the smallest savings depositor to the largest commercial organization, good and adequate banking facilities. Each customer whether his account be large or small is welcome as a client of the institution.

SHOULD BE OPTIMISTIC

Those who appear to be alarmed by happenings during the period of deflation upon which the world has now definitely entered, would do well to study history, says the Ottawa Journal. It took Great Britain more than twenty years to recover from the inflation which accompanied the Napoleonic wars. It was not until twelve years after the Civil War that the United States had returned to stable financial conditions. The panic of 1873 showed what slow progress had been made up to that time. We are moving very much faster towards a complete readjustment today, without any of the violent disturbances which marked the experience of both Great Britain and the United States. A drop of 45 per cent. has already occurred in the index number which shows the cost of living. England had not reached half that distance five years after the battle of Waterloo. The drop in prices in the United States was only 25 per cent. after the close of the Civil War. Of course, our neighbors had to contend against a greatly inflated currency. We are free from that difficulty, and the fact is distinctly in our favor. Prices are falling rapidly, and yet failures are few in number, and the general effect has not thus far suggested the slightest cause for alarm. Our banking system is sound and elastic. We are prepared for a strain which has not really been seriously felt.

CHAPTER AND VERSE, PLEASE.

The Advocate last week said: "The scriptures tell us that cleanliness is next to Godliness." Will our esteemed contemporary kindly quote exactly what verse where this information can be found in the scriptures?

Onions and potatoes in B. C. are being thrown out to rot on the ground, as there is no sale for them in that province. With onions selling at three cents a pound, and potatoes at about the same price here, it seems a pity they could not reach this market, as there should be sale for them in Alberta.

A REVOLUTION THAT FAILED

New York Times: "We may go down," said Mr. Frank Hodges, secretary of the Miners' Federation, at the beginning of the strike, "but if we do the nation is doomed." The British nation thought and has decided otherwise. It is evident that the miners were counting on the Triple Alliance. But at the height of the crisis it failed them. The reasons are not hidden. The leaders of the railway unions and of the transport workers found that they could not carry their men with them into a general strike. They also viewed with dismay the resolute preparations made by the government to meet and break the strike. Above all they shrink from encountering the public obloquy which would have fallen upon them if they had persisted in carrying out the strike order. So they cancelled it at the last moment, taking advantage of the convenient excuse that they could not support the miners in the unreasonable position of refusing to re-open negotiations for a settlement. The result is to throw back the coal strike by itself to an adjustment on its merits. The Triple Alliance has come dual and then gave up the contest. Thus again the advertised British "revolution" failed to come off.

STARTS THE GUESSING

Ottawa Journal: The census of 1891 revealed a population for the Dominion of 4,823,239. In 1901 it had risen to 5,211,351, and ten years later to 7,206,643. There is considerable speculation as to what will be the figures for 1921 and they have been conservatively placed at 8,700,000. They are roughly assumed to be 9,000,000 for the purposes of many official statistical calculations, but that total may be maintained by the actual count in June.

lined to be the fathers of a nation in North-American soil, that may well be proud to spring from stock like this. Having finished his mission in England, Mr. Marshall proceeded to Sterling, the historic city. Here Wallace won his fame, and the home of kings of former days. From Sterling came the first king to reign over the combined Britain and Ireland. Here are found the beautiful Loch Lomond and the famous Loch Katrine, the falls and the Trossachs. Around here, Mr. Marshall visited several men on estates who are good cattle raisers. Here, too, is the estate of General Keith, to whom Napoleon surrendered.

In Britain the men of wealth and standing, for the most part, engage in agriculture. King Edward once declared that if he were not compelled to be King of England, he would wish to be a lowly Scottish farmer. Stock-raising is a democratic business. There is no royal road to success. In the Royal Shows last year, the King's own exhibits never drew higher prizes than third place, while the Prince of Wales only got one first prize.

Forth might be known for the Shorthorn city. Here, too, are the ruins of the castle where Scottish kings were crowned. Aberdeen, Mr. Marshall declared to be the cleanest, coldest-looking place ever seen. The Highland Show will be held there this year. Aberdeen was the home of Amos Cruickshank, an original breeder of famous Shorthorns. Abolished men are scarce around there now, so many were killed or maimed in the war.

The speaker gave a vivid portrait of William Duthie, of Aberdeen, perhaps the greatest living breeder. He is still a tenant farmer, though a millionaire. He has made the greatest records for his calves. Mr. Marshall spent a day with him. He is over 80 years of age, nobody knows how much more and seldom ask, for William Duthie will never grow old. He is as active and energetic as a comparatively young man. Boys and girls were overjoyed to see the man that loves calves, loves children, too. Mr. Duthie's house is open, the visitors can go there and stay as long as they like, but you cannot see his cattle on the Sabbath. He goes to church at least twice on Sunday and in the afternoon he will visit somebody who is sick or in trouble.

William Duthie is the type of many men who live in Scotland. It is characters such as his that are loved at home and abroad. There are the types that prove that man is the noblest work of God.

It was a fine address, punctuated with frequent flashes of humor. The speaker was particularly at home in his quotations of poetry and his many literary and historical references. F. W. Galbraith, in moving a vote of thanks to the speaker, recounted some of his own experiences on his trip to Scotland a few years ago. He would always love his British stock.

W. B. Payne, seconding the vote of thanks, stated he had never seen Mr. Marshall in better form than that he was that night. Mr. Payne had a liking for Shorthorn cattle himself, which helped him, to appreciate Mr. Marshall's many references to them. Although he was not a Scotchman by birth, Mr. Payne had done the next best thing, he became a Scotchman by marriage.

The enthusiastic vote of thanks being tendered by the chairman, Mr. Marshall stated that he felt tired at the outset of the address, but the intelligent interest of the audience had helped him wonderfully and he had enjoyed a very pleasant experience.

The Board of Trade will have the hearty thanks of many citizens of the city and surrounding country for the enterprise in bringing Mr. Marshall to Red Deer to give his excellent address.

As one travels over that land and finds in places wild rugged moors and considerable stretches of country not under cultivation, then as one thinks of what the inhabitants of that land have accomplished, how they have financed themselves and their allies—no wonder. Not only has Great Britain met all her liabilities and paid the interest on her loans, but she has paid a billion dollars on account of her national debt this year.

We may well be proud of the good old British stock. And in the war activities she carried her share and assisted her allies. For one nation that entered the war at a much later date, Britain supplied the ships that carried the first million men to the scene of war and protected their transports on the high seas. The more credit the first million men to the prouder he became.

Returning to London, he went out to see the Prince of Wales forms and inspected the beautiful stock, some of which is being shipped to his ranch in Alberta, and which will be a marked contribution to the quality of live stock that may be found in this province.

Here, in Devon, Mr. Marshall enjoyed the famous English strawberries and Devonshire cream, which cultivated even the Scotch porridge.

Visiting Plymouth, he saw the place where Winston Churchill held the Spanish Armada approach. True to the British habit of finishing things, Raleigh finished the Spanish Armada. Britain has been mistress of the seas ever since.

The spirit is shown by the simple inscription on the monument at Plymouth. He caused his wishes to be scattered over his ships. Here, too, Mr. Marshall saw a stone with the word "Mayflower" thereon, and realized that from this place 200 years ago, the Plymouth brethren had sailed, des-shall's many references to them. Although he was not a Scotchman by birth, Mr. Payne had done the next best thing, he became a Scotchman by marriage.

The enthusiastic vote of thanks being tendered by the chairman, Mr. Marshall stated that he felt tired at the outset of the address, but the intelligent interest of the audience had helped him wonderfully and he had enjoyed a very pleasant experience.

The Board of Trade will have the hearty thanks of many citizens of the city and surrounding country for the enterprise in bringing Mr. Marshall to Red Deer to give his excellent address.

As one travels over that land and finds in places wild rugged moors and considerable stretches of country not under cultivation, then as one thinks of what the inhabitants of that land have accomplished, how they have financed themselves and their allies—no wonder. Not only has Great Britain met all her liabilities and paid the interest on her loans, but she has paid a billion dollars on account of her national debt this year.

We may well be proud of the good old British stock. And in the war activities she carried her share and assisted her allies. For one nation that entered the war at a much later date, Britain supplied the ships that carried the first million men to the scene of war and protected their transports on the high seas. The more credit the first million men to the prouder he became.

A GRUESOME PARADISE

London Daily Telegraph: After a little over three years of Soviet rule Russia lies dying before the eyes of a helpless world. What was to have been the triumph of Marxian Socialism has become a disaster, which has involved in mental and physical suffering many millions of human beings.

besides sweeping away all the foundations upon which their prosperity rested. When Lenin Trotsky and Chicherin seized the reins of power towards the close of 1917, they proclaimed a Communist Government with a Constituent Assembly—which was never assembled on that day to this—in which the last word was "the first word would be with the workers."

W. B. Payne, seconding the vote of thanks, stated he had never seen Mr. Marshall in better form than that he was that night. Mr. Payne had a liking for Shorthorn cattle himself, which helped him, to appreciate Mr. Marshall's many references to them.

Although he was not a Scotchman by birth, Mr. Payne had done the next best thing, he became a Scotchman by marriage.

MACHINIST WAS FORCED TO QUIT

Was So Run Down He Had to Give Up, But Is Back on Job Now—Praises Tanlac.

"I have not only gained thirteen pounds since I started taking Tanlac, but I know what it is to enjoy a good meal for the first time in years," said John Gallo, machinist in the employ of the Canadian Government railway and living at 99 Berlin Ave., Winnipeg, Man.

"For several years I was in bad health," he said, "but ever since I started on an attack of the flu I had been very much worse. I just felt tired all the time and became so weak that I was all I could do to stick to my work. My appetite failed and even the little I did force down caused my stomach to be upset and the gas formed, and I was all I could do to stick to my work. I was losing weight at the rate of three or four pounds a week and I got so weak at last that I often had to lay off from work."

"Then a neighbor who had suffered in much the same way as myself was so greatly helped by Tanlac that I decided to try it. I soon noted a big improvement in my appetite, and now, when I come home from work, I sit down and eat a supper that would surprise you. I'm never troubled with indigestion, pains in the stomach or gas, and my food is doing me so much good that I have gained thirteen pounds and feel like a different man."

Money Will Not Buy a Better Paper

The man of wealth can buy a better car, wear better clothes, eat better food, live in a better house, than those without means. But he cannot buy a better newspaper. Even if he would spend $50, $100, or $1,000 a day—if he lived in the territory covered by The Calgary Herald, he could not buy a paper that would give him needs better than you can for 2-3c a day.

In Buying Newspapers All Men Are Equal

The price of newspapers is the same, or nearly so, regardless of the value they offer—so you should see that you get the best when the best costs no more. In the Calgary Herald you get a paper that averages from 18 to 36 pages—you get all the news first, and it's dependable. You get a variety of variety and a wealth of special articles, departments and features that are equalled by but few papers in the Dominion. The Herald offers the greatest newspaper value you can buy—and, as for the past 37 years, it will serve you best.

CARE OF SEED POTATOES AND PREPARATION FOR PLANTING

(Experimental Farms Note)
SELECTION

In arranging for the seed supply of tubers from one's crop, the first steps should be taken during the growing season to get the seed from healthy, vigorous, large-yielding hills. When harvesting time comes these hills should be gathered separately from the rest of the crop. The tubers should be sun dried and all showing cuts, bruises or disease of any kind thrown out. Such supply can then be kept for a seed area for the following season.

Where the main crop is destined for this seed trade, equally good care should be taken in the harvesting and sorting before placing into winter storage. If the weather is bad at digging time, and the tubers have to be taken wet from the field, they should be spread out to dry on a bare floor or other dry place and be resorted before going into storage.

STORAGE

The best storage for maintaining vitality of seed tubers has not so far as the writer is aware, been absolutely determined. Seed from a dry cullar with temperature ranging from 40 degrees to 50 degrees has been equally vigorous with that from a moist cellar at a temperature of 34 degrees to 38 degrees, though, of course, there would be great loss of bulk and weight in the former case. Potatoes kept in pits with excess of moisture and minimum of ventilation have also given vigorous plants.

When potatoes are first stored there should be free ventilation to carry off all latent heat in the tubers
and to reduce temperature to below 40 degrees. If the floor of storage is very damp the heat will be raised by a wooden floor. If it is dry there is nothing gained by the floor. If lines are very deep (about six feet) it will be better to break up by hollow partitions placed not more than ten feet apart, though the writer has seen potatoes keeping well in very large deep bins.

The storage should be so constructed as to keep cool in the spring. It should be possible to keep it below 40 degrees, to prevent sprouting until such time as the tubers are wanted.

FORCED SPROUTING

For an early crop, it is a common practice to take the seed tubers to a light room of about 60 degrees temperature by the 20th March, to give them four to six weeks to warm up and sprout. A thick green sprout not more than a half inch in length is the exact gain in growth from this treatment has not been determined.
In one trial at the Experimental Station, Fredericton, the difference in growth as between seed so treated and seed taken immediately from the cellar, was very slight. Plants from the sprouted seed were only from two to three days ahead of the others.

DISINFECTING

To kill any spores of common scab, and, to some extent, Rhizoctonia, the potatoes should be treated with a disinfectant. The safest is a 1 per cent.
formalin, at the rate of a pint to 50 gallons of water. The tubers are best bagged and then immersed for two hours.

Investigators are now trying out methods of disinfection whereby the use of heat and greater strength of solution will materially hasten the process of disinfection.

CUTTING THE SETS

Experiments have proven quite clearly that the most economical way to use seed is to cut to sets weighing not less than one ounce and not more than two ounces, with from two to three eyes to the set. Cutting by a machine or a cutting board may be economical in large commercial operations, but as when using these the size of sets and number of eyes cannot be well regulated nor elimination of internal disease carried out, the advantage of speed may not be good economy.

To make sure that no sets infected with Black Leg, Fusarium Wilt, Late Blight and other possible troubles are planted, the best procedure is, first,
to throw out all cut and bruised tu-bers, cut a thin slice off the stem end and then discard any tubers showing discoloration. Two knives should be used, one kept standing in a can of formalin solution; immediately a dis-colored potato is cut, the knife used should be put in the disinfectant and the other knife taken.

As the sets dry out quickly when cut and will heat if left in piles or barrels, they should be coated with dust, gypsum, or lime plaster, is one of the best materials to use, and if from two to four quarts is spread through the barrel seed the sets will keep firm and cool without deterioration for days and even weeks. Air drying time is frequently used, and sometimes road dust and sulphur.
Lime, if not thoroughly slaked, may injure the eyes and makes the sets unpleasant to handle.

Experimental Station,
Fredericton, N. B.

LOBSTICK U.F.A.

The Lobstick U.F.A., Leslieville, is holding a series of Essay Contests for the children of the surrounding district, on different subjects to be assigned by the Local. The first, which closed April 15, was on the subject: "Why I like to live on a farm." All boys and girls under 16 years of age were invited to compete, and a prize of $1 cash or a Junior membership in the Local with a U.F.A. button was offered to the winner. The prize ($1) was won by Nelson McEwen, of the Blueberry Valley school. The next contest will be on the subject: "The most useful animal on the farm," and is open to Grades VI, VII and VIII. Prize will be as before, except that a second prize of 50 cents is offered for the second best essay. The Local is very pleased with the result of the first attempt. Denial was made by the prime minister that Sir Robert Borden or Hon. N. W. Rowell were applicants for the proposed position at Washington. During the discussion in the Commons on the advisability of appointing a Canadian representative at Washington, Dr. Michael Clark (Red Deer) said the destiny of Canada would presumably take one of three lines. She might, in the long course of years, become independent. For his part, said Dr. Clark, he was content that Canada remain pretty much where she was. The worst foes of the British Empire were those who, like the little girl, had planted a flower and were constantly pulling it up to see how the roots were growing. Canada was doing pretty well and the process of evolution might well be left in the hands of the gods. Furthermore, said Dr. Clark, the appointment of a plenipotentiary to a foreign country was the act of a sovereign state. Such an act might be regarded as going beyond evolution and bordering rather on revolution. If a plenipotentiary to Washington now, why not one to France a little later? Another point not to be belittled was that of expense. The entourage of an embassy was one of the most costly fleets which a nation might find for its activities. Denial was made by the prime minister that Sir Robert Borden or Hon. N. W. Rowell were applicants for the proposed position at Washington. Reports from the Provincial Society meetings held at Edmonton on April 13 and 14 were given by Mrs. McPherson and Mrs. F. A. McEwen, the two delegates who represented the Society. The outstanding figure of the convention was Dr. Margaret Mackellar, who for thirty years has carried on a wonderful medical missionary work her daughter, Mrs. Fred Wade. While putting a paper in the stove to hurry the fire, it ignited and set fire to her apron. The flames burned her face, hands and several places on her body where the fire burned through her clothing, before being extinguished. Mrs. McEwen was 83 years of age and the shock was very severe to one of her years. Mrs. Wade had her hands severely burned in attempting to extinguish the burning clothing. Both mother and daughter were taken to the Infirmary Hospital where Mrs. McEwen succumbed to her injuries on Wednesday morning. The monthly meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of Knox Presbyterian church was held Friday, April 22. Mrs. Malcolm acted as president in the absence of Mrs. McVicar, who was unable to be present. Sympathetic reference was made to the death of Mrs. Weston, president of the Mission Band, and on motion of Mrs. McPherson a letter of condolence was sent to her relatives. Reports from the Provincial Society meetings held at Edmonton on April 13 and 14 were given by Mrs. McPherson and Mrs. F. A. McEwen, the two delegates who represented the Society. The outstanding figure of the convention was Dr. Margaret Mackellar, who for thirty years has carried on a wonderful medical missionary work at Neemuch, India, and because of her valuable services in epidemic and war work, she received the Kaiser-i-Hind medal for public service, and was an honored guest at the great Coronation durbar at Delhi. Dr. Mackellar gave valuable information as to the political situation in India, and the progress of the missionary work. She made a strong plea for more doctors, teachers and nurses for that country, where women and girls had been more chaste. The great problem before the Board in Canada was the assimilating and Canadianizing of the 1,000,000 non-Anglo-Saxons in Canada—from 40 different countries, and speaking fifty-eight dialects. The hospitals and school homes were doing a most gratifying religious and civilizing work among these peoples. The English-speaking school teacher was always welcomed. The main officers of the Provincial W.M.S. to go to Calgary this year, officers transferring from Edmonton to Calgary at regular intervals. ## MALE VOICE CHOIR GAVE GOOD CONCERT

Assisting Artists Appear to Excellent Advantage

The Male Voice Choir, conducted by Reg. Taylor, gave a good account of itself last Wednesday night. There was a fairly good attendance, but not as large as on the previous appearance of the choir in the early winter. The choir was splendid in numbers, and the conductor deserves credit for the way he has stuck to the job and kept the men together under discouraging conditions. The chorus was good at all times, the leader was in control of the choir and had the co-operation of his choir.

Mrs. E. G. Johns was a distinct success as accompanist. Her sympathetic work assisted the soloists wonderfully as well as adding materially to the pleasure of the audience.

Mrs. R. G. Dave did herself credit as soloist in the Miserere. She also gave her other solo numbers in good form. Mrs. Dave has always been held in the highest regard by the music lovers of Red Deer.

Miss G. Smith and Mr. E. G. Johns rendered a very pleasing duet and were forced to respond to an encore.

The work of the male soloists, E. G. Johns and W. Johnston Cooke in the Miserere, Reg. Taylor in a fine rendering of the baritone competition numbers, and H. P. Kenny in the bass competition numbers, were fully up to their usual standard.

It was a very enjoyable concert.

THE PENHOLD & DISTRICT U.F.A. CO-OPERATIVE ASSOCIATION, LIMITED, PENHOLD, ALBERTA

To our Customers:

The folly of credit in connection with the sale of goods for immediate consumption is recognised by all classes at the present time. Those who sell the goods are forced to charge exorbitant prices to cover the interest on amount of credit extended, and to cover the losses accruing from "bad accounts."

The consumers on the other hand thoughtlessly abuse the privilege of obtaining goods on credit; and consequently obligate themselves beyond the prospects of recovery. As a result of this, the "Credit System" is being commuted as unfair and unjust to all concerned.

Instead of continuing to conduct our business under this old abusive method, we shall, in the future, sell our goods only for cash, and on approved thirty day credit basis.

We know that under this plan our dealings will be more pleasant, and more to our mutual interest from a financial standpoint.

In view of this we solicit your hearty co-operation in adapting our services to a method whereby we shall own that which we hold.

Your patronage is respectfully solicited.
